

Pretty Miss Lura Fogg Mysteriously Disappears

Miss Lura Fogg, aged 18 years, youngest daughter of John W. Fogg, mysteriously disappeared from her home on the Fogg pike, about two miles from this city, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Fogg, who is quite pretty and very popular, was dressed presumably to come to this city. She had slipped over her dress an apron, which was found in a fence corner in the yard following her disappearance. Upon the discovery of the apron the family became alarmed and began a search for her whereabouts. Footprints were seen in the field leading from the house, and it was later learned that she had secured a taxi from this city, which took her to Winchester, where she had a check cashed for a small amount. It was later learned that the bank in Winchester which had cashed the check had called up the Mt. Sterling National Bank in this city for identification. After getting the check cashed all efforts to trace her whereabouts have been unsuccessful, despite the fact that every effort is being made by the family, friends and officials. Authorities at Cincinnati have been notified to be on the lookout, as have also those in other cities adjacent to this section. No reason is known for her running away and her family and friends are much alarmed over her mysterious disappearance.

Miss Fogg is a very beautiful girl of the blonde type, has blue eyes and is a talented musician.

The entire community is shocked over her strange disappearance, as no motive whatever is known that would cause her to leave home.

She is about five feet six inches tall of slender build and very youthful looking for a girl of her age.

Apoplexy Fatal To Mrs. Margaret Glover

Mrs. Margaret Glover, aged 75 years, widow of the late Chess Glover, died at her home on Sycamore street Tuesday morning of apoplexy. Mrs. Glover was at the breakfast table the morning of her death with her family, and was apparently in good health. Before her marriage Mrs. Glover was Miss Margaret Gilton, of Owingsville, and was widely connected throughout this section. Surviving her are five children—Mrs. Mike Howard and Miss Mary Glover, of this city; Mrs. W. D. Craig, of this county; Miss Frances Glover, of Cincinnati, and James Glover, of Catlettsburg. Funeral services were held at St. Patrick's church this morning, conducted by Father Corby, and the burial was in St. Thomas' Cemetery.

In the passing of Mrs. Glover this city loses one of its truest and noblest women, one who was never happier than when performing some deed of kindness that would lighten the load of her neighbors and her friends. In her home circle she was always queen, and her life was as an open book, with every page inscribed with Christian acts by this noble woman. Women of the type of Mrs. Glover are a credit to any city and in her passing the entire community suffers a distinct loss.

Fox Hearing Is Set For Friday

The examining trial of Reese Fox, charged with conspiracy in the murder of Leon Renaker, will be held on Friday, August 25, at 10 a. m., it was decided at Winchester at a conference of attorneys for the defense and commonwealth.

It has been rumored that Fox's attorneys will attempt to prove that Fox was not in the city the night the murder was committed. This rumor is false, according to Col. J. F. Winn, one of Fox's attorneys, although he would not state Wednesday what the defense would be. Colonel Winn said yesterday that his client was in Winchester the night of the murder. County Judge R. S. Scoobe will be the examining officer at the hearing tomorrow.

James G. Denny, of Lexington, has been employed to aid Colonel Winn and G. F. Wycoffe in the defense of Fox.

Insurance policies of Leon Renaker amounting to $6,000 have been paid to Mrs. Nancy C. Renaker, his widow. The Bankers Life Company, of Des Moines, Iowa, has paid a policy amounting to $2,000, and the Mutual Benefit Company, of Newark, N. J., has sent Mrs. Renaker a check for $4,000.

New Battery For Game Today

Pitcher Ferrell, who several weeks ago twirled such a star game against Winchester, holding the Dodgers to four hits, but losing by the score of 1 to 0 because of the inability of our boys to connect safely with Powell's offerings, will be in the box for Mt. Sterling today against Maysville. A new catcher by the name of Klopfi will also be seen in action, and is said to be a star performer. Maysville is at present tied for second place with Cynthiaana for the league standing and is said to be out for blood this afternoon as our boys took them into camp the last two times they met.

There will be no game Saturday, the locals being scheduled to play at Lexington, but the game has been postponed on account of the Blue Grass Fair. The Essex will play at Lexington Sunday and it is likely that Harrison, who held the Studebaker the last time he faced them, will be in the box.

After today there will not be another game on the local grounds until Labor Day, September 4.

Mrs. Robert Dillon Dies Following Long Illness

Mrs. Robert Dillon, aged 63 years, died at her home in this city yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, following an illness of several months. Mrs. Dillon was born in Fleming county February 21, 1859, and was a most excellent lady, widely known and greatly beloved. She is survived by her husband and five children—Mrs. Dan McCord, Batavia, Ohio; Mrs. Harry Mann, Maysville; Mrs. George Foley, this county; Mrs. Smith Warner and Elmer Dillon, this city. Six stepchildren also survive—Mrs. John M. Crouch and Mrs. Noah Gilvin, of this county; Mrs. Charles Rumyon, of Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mrs. Charles Mayfield, of Denver, Colo.; Charles Dillon, of Paint Lick, and Robert Dillon, of Ewing. Deceased also leaves four sisters and two brothers to mourn her passing.

The funeral service will be held at the grave this afternoon in Maple Hill Cemetery at 3 o'clock, conducted by Revs. B. W. Trimble and J. W. Crates.

Thus the earthly existence of another of God's noblewomen has come to an end, but the beautiful, self-sacrificing life led by this noble woman will live long in the memory of all her friends, relatives and acquaintances. And we are sure the world is much better by her having lived.

Action Rushed On Bonus Bill

The United States senate moved forward so rapidly yesterday in its consideration of the soldiers' bonus bill that some leaders regarded passage of the measure before the end of the week more than a possibility. Opponents were understood to be disposed to let the bill take its course at this time in the belief that President Harding would veto it. Should he do so, they planned to center their fight against its passage over his veto.

There was still no official information before the senate as to the executive's views, other than that contained in his letter read to the house last March, just before that body passed the bill. He then advised that congress either find a means of financing the legislation or postpone its enactment, and some friends favorable to the bill, as well as opponents, believe he still is of that mind.

Replying to a question by Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, Chairman McCumber, of the finance committee, told the senate yesterday that there was on official information as to what the president would do. He added that the changes in the bill by which there would be no heavy draft on the treasury for the next three years would seem to meet every objection the president had urged against the original cash measure, and that he could see no reason why the executive should veto the bill as now drawn.

The senate agreed to the 47 committee amendments to the house bill in exactly 715 minutes and then it got ahead of itself to such an extent that the measure was laid aside temporarily.

Railway Conference Fails To Bring Peace

The association of railway executives by a vote of 254 to 4 yesterday rejected the proposals of the big five train service brotherhoods that the carriers end the nation-wide shopmen's strike by reinstating the men with seniority unimpaired, and Bert M. Jewell, official spokesman for the strikers, declared the association had closed the door to peace and voted for a lockout to smash unionism.

At the same time, splitting away from the majority, was a group of 25 railroads, principally western lines, which debated a new suggestion of the brotherhoods that individual settlements be effected.

This minority, while professing to stand with the majority in reaffirming the stand on seniority, still indicated that it desires to hear further regarding the individual settlement.

Hale D. Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, who attended a meeting of the minority after the general membership of the association had ended its session, joined with members of the majority group in denying that there was any split.

"There is no question of a split," he asserted. "The railroads are all standing pat on seniority and any individual settlement will have to be made in the light of that understanding."

The day's proceedings may be outlined as follows:

1—The association met as a whole, almost unanimously decided to continue its stand against restoring the strikers with help ranking unaffected and directed its committee, which met last week with the brotherhood chiefs, to draft up a resolution embodying this decision.

2—The committee submitted the resolution after the noon recess and after its adoption left for the grand central station and transmitted the message to the committee representing the running trades, who have stepped into the shoes of mediators. These mediators, before going into conference, issued a statement asserting that the strike must be settled because the public demanded it and setting forth that "the crews who now operate the trains from that part of the public which knows best why a settlement must come."

3—The brotherhood then advanced another proposal, i. e., that the strikers be "reinstated in the position of the class they originally held June 30," that all be restored not later than October 1, and that disputes which might arise over seniority rights be referred to the railroad labor board. Later it was suggested that settlements by individual roads be made on this basis.

4—The committee representing executives and the big five, departing by a back stairway to elude newspaper men, then repaired to the Yale Club, and the brotherhood chiefs addressed

Russell Quits As B. G. League Chief

Thomas M. Russell, of Maysville, president of the Blue Grass League, who was also president of the Blue Grass League of a decade ago, tendered his resignation at a meeting of the club owners at the Phoenix hotel in Lexington last night. Mr. Russell will continue in office until his successor is chosen.

Club owners present expressed much regret that Mr. Russell should give up the presidency, but he explained that the pleasure of holding the office was not enough to compensate him for the "enemies" he had made while trying to do his duty. It was largely through the efforts of Mr. Russell that the Blue Grass circuit, composed of but six clubs and carrying a schedule of but two games a week, was able to weather the storms that threatened to upset it during the early part of the season. No mention has been made as to who may be his successor.

The meeting held last night was hastily arranged, and was not announced by Mr. Russell until yesterday. A number of other matters were discussed, including financial arrangements, umpires, "meddling with players" and contracts. No definite action was taken, except that it was decided that all contracts be forwarded directly to the president.

The Winchester and Lexington clubs agreed good naturedly to fight it out to the bitter end for the possession of John ("Rasty") Wright, who has pitched for both clubs, and who has also been sold to Pittsburg. Apparently an extensive legal battle is to result.

President Russell announced that Devereaux, Winchester first baseman, and Class, Maysville outfielder, had been fined $25 and $10, respectively, for a fist fight in which the two engaged in a recent game. Every club in the league was represented with the exception of Mt. Sterling.

5—The mediators then withdrew and departed for the Hotel Woodstock for a conference with shopcraft leaders, which lasted into the evening.

6—The association adjourned its meeting.

OLD BRICK AND GRANITE BLOCK STREETS MADE TO SERVE LIVES

One of the most outstanding contributions now being practiced in street and highway paving is found in the use of old verified paving brick or old granite block in the reconstruction of pavements under which the artificial base has been discarded.
A recently conducted survey shows that this practice is saving many tax burdened communities thousands of dollars.

There are numerous American cities that find themselves with brick or granite block pavements ranging in age from 20 to 25 years or more.
In numerous instances these old pavements show signs of roughness.
At the time they were built there was no indication that they would be called upon to stand such strain as that presented since the advent of the heavy motor truck. Many such pavements have no foundation other than the natural soil. Others have extremely thin and unsatisfactory artificial base. However, when adequate for light or medium traffic.

Present day traffic has deteriorated the top layer in some instances and the result is a rough street. The first principle of reconstructing this situation was to apply a reconstructing coat over the brick or block. This, however, frequently proved costly because the degradation in the base material reappeared and frequent patching of the new coat greatly increased maintenance costs.

Engineers investigating this situation found in the majority of cases where roughness of surface developed that the brick or block themselves became of their roughness and deteriority were for the most part uninjured and often only very slightly worn on the upper side.

The practice then developed of removing the brick, constructing a more substantial base and relaying the brick by turning them over and applying asphalt between the joints. In the case of granite block, resurfacing often is resorted to.

Numerous cities have adopted this practice in preference to entirely maintain resurfacing. The brick or block despite their many years of service are practically as good as new, and with a more substantial artificial base a pavement good for another generation is often obtained.

As an indication of how wide spread this practice has become in recent years the survey points at random to the following as a few cities that have adopted this method of renewing pavements: Meridian, Mississippi; Pensacola, Florida; Topeka, Kan.; N. Y.; Alton, Illinois; Lancaster, Ohio.

WESTERN KENTUCKY MEN SHOW INTEREST IN POULTRY

Recent poultry raising demonstrations conducted in Grayson, Hart and Muhlenberg counties by farmers' organizations, the extension division of the College of Agriculture and county agricultural agents brought out many indications that farmers in Central-Western Kentucky are keenly interested in poultry raising. The demonstrations, which were designed to show farmers and poultry raisers how to distinguish between the laying and brooding hens in their flocks, also served to bring out many points on housing, feeding and the control of poultry diseases for the benefit of those who attended.

The interest was especially marked in Grayson county where farmers received a total of more than one million dollars in 1931 from the sale of poultry products. According to producer men, five hundred fifty persons attended nine demonstrations and one night meeting held in this county a total of 150 persons important poultry problems were discussed. Eight similar demonstrations were held in Hart county and four in Muhlenberg.

The schedule of nine demonstrations in Grayson county took in the farmers of W. I. Dehaven, Jim Larkin and A. L. Moore, near Leitchfield; P.
H. Tabb, near Caseyville; R. E.
Robby, near Church; John Hackett, near Clarksville; J. O. Washburn, near Caseyville; John Shain, near Spring
Lake; and Sam C. Lee, near Leitchfield. In Hart county the demonstrations were held on the farms of Dr. R.
D. Peterson, William Shinker, C. C.
Whitson, J. B. Lester and O. W. Moss
all near Mumfordsville; J. T. Gerald, near Oak Run; L. B. Bowling, near Cammer; and J. T. Bryant, near Harrington. The four Muhlenberg county demonstrations were held on the farm of D. Stewart and W. W. Warren, near Greenville; V. B. Southard, near Luzerne; and J. W. Wynn, near Dun-more.

The entire flock on each of these farms was culled by H. R. Jackson, poultry extension specialist from the College of Agriculture, in order to show farmers the method of distinguishing between the laying and brooding hens in their flocks. Many questions as to the control of poultry diseases and the best methods of increasing egg production by feeding also were answered for the benefit of those who attended the demonstrations. A total of 1,450 hens were handled in the demonstrations, 419, or more than 28 per cent of these, being culled out because they showed the characteristic signs of being poor producers that had stopped laying.

MORGAN FARMERS ENTER DRIVE FOR CLOVER CROPS

Morgan county farmers are the most recent ones to join the annual fall crop campaign being conducted throughout the state through the cooperation of farmers' organizations, county agricultural agents and the extension division of the College of Agriculture, according to R. E. Shepherd, with specialists of the college.
The campaign is designed to prevent the heavy losses of plant food caused by erosion and leaching when fields are left unprotected during the winter.

Farmers in the county who are cooperating with County Agent R. E.
Rankin are expected to make a special effort to have a large acreage of rye seeded, this crop being the principal one that will be used in the campaign. Morgan county has a considerable acreage of rolling land that erodes rapidly when left without a growing crop during the winter. Many tobacco and corn fields and a number of corn fields in the county are in special need of some crop to protect them.

In addition to protecting the soil from erosion and leaching, the rye on many farms in the county will be used for pasture. The crop has proved satisfactory for grazing with all kinds of stock, many farmers last year having been especially pleased with it as a pasture for dairy cows and ewes that were weanling lambs.
Calves and pigs also thrive on young rye.

A few farmers in the county who have rich soils on their farms will use vetch and rye as their cover crop combination. In this case about 10 pounds of vetch seed will be used with a bushel of rye for each acre.
Vetch is especially valuable since it is a legume and therefore builds up the soil. It is hardy but the seed must be inoculated and requires a little better soil than rye.

In most cases where the vetch and rye are seeded together they will be plowed under in the spring for green manure. Farmers who use rye alone will either plow it under or use it as a nurse crop for grass. Satisfactory results are obtained by handling the crop either way. Pasturing the rye when it is used as nurse crop does not injure the grass if the stock are removed early in the season.

25 CARS OF LIME SPREAD ON GRAYSON COUNTY SOIL

Liberal use of limestone is playing the leading role in a soil improvement movement which Grayson county farmers are carrying on in cooperation with County Agent R. W. Soscarre and the College of Agriculture extension division. During the last three months, approximately 25 carloads of the material have been used on farms in the county while the steady use of it is expected to be continued for some time. The fact that Mr. Soscarre, who is directing the work has been in the county only about three months is taken as an indication of the keen interest which farmers in that section are showing in this method of increasing the crop yields from their land.

Most of the soil types found in the county belong to the coal measures and Chester formations although a few outcroppings of St. Louis limestone are present. Many of the soils are extremely sour and need limestone more than anything else before they can produce clover and other legumes. County Agent Soscarre is recommending an application of two tons of limestone and 300 pounds of acid phosphate an acre. The fertilizer and limestone in most cases will be used on wheat where clover is to be seeded in the spring. Excellent results are almost sure to follow this method of soil treatment, specialists say.

In order that the use of limestone would not have to be limited, farmers who were interested in the plan of soil improvement contracted for the entire summer output of a quarry in a neighboring county. Under this plan, they are obtaining the stone at a cost of from $1.37 to $1.67 a ton which is said to be cheaper than farmers can crush their own stone. The use of limestone at this price is limited only by the supply, soil specialists say.

Many other counties in the state are using large quantities of limestone for soil improvement, but only those having the advantages of a state-owned crusher in localities where outcroppings of a good grade of stone are abundant have used as much during a short period of time as has been in Grayson county, it is said.

The trouble with the average substitute that's "just as good" is that it isn't.

MAP SHOWS EXTENT OF CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS

Tests of thousands of herds throughout the country have enabled the United States Department of Agriculture to make a map showing the approximate percentage of cattle in various States and counties infected with tuberculosis.
In nearly half the country, largely in the South and Southwest, it is shown that less than 1 per cent of the cattle have the disease. In other parts of the country the infection runs from 1 to 15 per cent, and in still other localities, aggregating more than 50,000 square miles, more than 25 per cent are believed to be tuberculous.

The figures are based on five years of systematic testing, and should prove of value in directing eradication work.

EQUAL RIGHTS

Women now demand that equal rights with men be incorporated in the constitution. What does a woman have to wear during the oppressive dog days?

- One low-necked sleeveless mosquito netting gown.
- One pair silk stockings.
- One pair slippers.
- That's all.
- What does a man wear during the said dog days?
- One coat.
- One vest.
- One pair trousers.
- One shirt with starched collar.
- One pair shoes.
- One union suit.
- One hat.
- One pair suspenders.
- One belt.

If he takes his coat off in a hot restaurant he is thrown out. If he takes his tight collar off, he is a rube. If he wore his trousers slit up to the knee he would be sent to the insane asylum.

Equal rights? Huh!

Special sale of women's Holeproof Hose continues this week. Don't miss it. Ask any woman who has worn Holeproof Hose about them. $3 hose cut to $1.98; $2 hose cut to $1.35; $1 hose cut to 69c. Come early and get your size.—The Walsh Co.

60,000 BOYS AND GIRLS IN JUNIOR SHORT COURSES

Over 60,000 boys and girls enrolled in club work under the supervision of extension workers employed cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges, enjoy the advantage of junior short courses and camps every year. These short courses have become a popular feature with the farm boys and girls and the eagerly looked forward to by them throughout the year.

The courses are patterned somewhat after the farmers and home makers' weeks, which have been conducted by the agriculture colleges for several years. Besides the instruction given, emphasis is laid on the social and recreational side of junior extension work. Most of the colleges give a course in rural leadership, emphasizing the importance of boys and girls becoming local leaders of clubs.

West Virginia, which, besides having 3 State camps for rural leadership for boys and girls, also maintains 40 county training schools. These schools are held in connection with county camps, and the farm boys and girls enjoy an outing of from 1 week to 10 days at very small expense. Most States provide similar programs at the college or at some desirable location in the State, and a considerable number—as, for example, Montana and Minnesota—conduct county camps.

22 YEARS AGO

Nobody swatted the fly.
Nobody wore a wrist watch.
Nobody had appendicitis.
Nobody wore white shoes.
Nobody sprayed orchards.
Nobody knew about radio.
Most young men had "livery bills."
Farmers came to town for their mail.

Many people read by the candle or kerosene light.
The heavens were not full of man-birds.

Nor the seas alive with underwater boats.
The hired girl drew one-fifty a week and was happy.

Young men learned trades at $6 per week.
The butcher "threw in" a chunk of liver.

The merchant "threw in" a pair of suspenders with every suit.
Nobody listened in on the telephone.

There were no electric meters.
Nobody observed a sane Fourth.

Straw stacks were burned instead of baled.

Publishing a newspaper was not a business, it was a dueling game.

There were no Bolsheviks nor "isms."

The safety razor had not introduced the clean-shaven face.

"Equipped with gas" was prominent line in flats-to-let advertisements.

Office folks didn't know about a fan in the summer time, and ice water was a treat.

Many folks retired at 9 p. m. and rose at 5 in the morning.

(Times have changed.)

COUNTY EGG-LAYING CONTEST

A mortality of less than 10 per cent for the year among hens entered in the egg-laying contest of Sonoma County, Calif., last year is reported to the United States Department of Agriculture by local extension workers, who worked out the feeding formula used in the contest. The health record of the hens entered and their laying average of 176 eggs per hen for the 364 days have led many local poultrymen to adopt the management and feeding methods used in the contest. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the poultrymen of the county have changed their method of feeding during the last five years, due to extension work influence.

BOVINE T. B. ERADICATION

Less than 10 years ago, says the United States Department of Agriculture, the eradication of bovine tuberculosis seemed a staggering undertaking. One reason that rapid progress seemed impossible was that the subcutaneous-test method ordinarily used was slow. But since that time the use of other methods that are much more rapid, the ophthalmic and the intradermic, has made it possible to clean up areas as large as counties in a few weeks with a relative small force. The only possible way to eradicate tuberculosis in the light of our present knowledge is to find the diseased animals and properly dispose of them more rapidly than the disease can be spread; that is the big problem, and it means testing great numbers of animals.

HELPING THEIR BROTHERS

"And now, sisters and brethren," announced the preacher, "we will take up our annual collection for the benefit of the heathen. At the same time, I embrace the opportunity to express the hope that the young men who have been making so much noise throughout the service will be especially liberal in their contributions. In duty bound they must help their brother heathen."

WILL THERE BE ACTION?

President Harding claims to have legal powers that, if enforced, would bring justice to an end. He has been giving out times for action in 14 and 15 days for the past week, but his business disbursements continue to the detriment of the entire people. What are the chances with a big pay commission if he will not carry to an equitable end such disbursements as are now in full swing? The president either can or can't, will or won't.

An equitable settlement would in most cases be a fairer at this time than it would be in the future. It is the duty of the president to see that justice is done in the present and a just policy will be worked out in this same party when an opportunity is presented to make immediate action be delayed.

WORDS OF CAUTION

Ben Garfield, of Grand Rapids, is here for a few weeks' visit. Mr. Garfield, who is a famous success in the practice of law, has made much money in his career. One incident in his publishing at this time. His company had brought in a printing of 100,000 copies of a book which had been offered $100,000. The book was printed in 1914, but the fact that another was not more than 100 yards away which was dry was not known, resulting in the destruction of their $100,000 worth. We mention this fact in order to caution against careless handling of paper. A good thing should be commercialized. We are anxious to see our people not only warned, but warned big.

MINIATURE BRIDGE TO AID ENGINEERS SOLVE PROBLEMS

A model of miniature concrete bridge which has been constructed by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, is being shown at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which is being held at the Hotel Hamilton in this city.

It has been found that the concrete is a stronger material than is generally supposed. In fact, it is a bridge of the same size and shape as the one shown, but it is made of concrete and is much stronger than the one made of steel. The model is being shown to the engineers in order to show them the strength of the material and to show them the possibilities of using it in the construction of bridges.

The problem is a complicated one, and the engineers are working on it. They are trying to find out the best way to use the material and to show them the possibilities of using it in the construction of bridges.

London will be applied to the model, and the engineers of various places throughout the world are taking with them the model as well as the model.

While opportunity knocks only once, the rest of the knockers aren't as particular.

WEATHER CONDITIONS VS. RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

Railroad transportation has been a problem in the past, and it is a problem in the future. The weather is a factor in the transportation of goods and people. The weather is a factor in the transportation of goods and people. The weather is a factor in the transportation of goods and people.

Temperature extremes affect all steel and iron work, such as rails and car wheels. Warmth of very cold or very hot weather indicates that arrangements must be made to keep them in good running order by replacement or repairs. There is a report in the case of rail transportation, and information furnished by the more reports of the weather bureau helps to forecast the conditions as to districts where wind-blown or snow-blown should be expected or otherwise made ready. Heavy rains bring about floods which wash away bridges, undermine roadbeds, and cause landslides. Not all of these dangers can be averted, but when predictions can be made in time, steps may be taken to lessen the damage by strengthening many points.

Ice storms and thunderstorms often put electric lines out of order. High winds will sometimes demolish trains. Snow and mud, impelled by strong winds, often pile upon the tracks and delay transportation. Heavy rainfall produces numerous vegetation, which is a great obstacle on earth-hauling roads, while any excessive moisture shortens the life of the car and other equipment.

Weather affects not only the railroad tracks and rolling stock, but also the goods transported. This is especially true of perishable goods. In addition to preserving and keeping stations which are maintained, refrigerators and heater cars are used and a close watch kept on weather bureau announcements in the districts where perishables must be moved.

"MOST DISTRESSFUL PEOPLE"

Even to a generation unused to shocks, and pallid with the deaths of the young and the beautiful, the assassination of Michael Collins, Erin's hero, carries the pang of grief. The war has cost millions of men in their graves and the selfish peace after the war has cost millions more, and yet there is a special waste and a peculiar melancholy about the death of Collins that brings tears to the eyes that had done with weeping.

He was at the top of his task of establishing the Irish Free State. After seven hundred years of the most rancorous racial strife the world has ever known, the Ireland of Collins and Griffith was to have absolute self-government. The best possible compromise of the impossible dream of complete autonomy had been obtained by the party of which Collins was the strong arm and Griffith the sound mind. The Free State was to give aid and poignancy to no enemy of Britain and acknowledged its integral part in the empire. But from its seaboarders inward and along the red line of Ulster the Free State was free of Westminster than Kentucky is of Washington. A state religion and state school system was permitted for the first time since the bloody roots of the struggle grasped the unhappy soil of Erin.

All this Collins and Griffith had done. They had compromised no principle; they had merely split a fact with Great Britain. So long as the island kingdoms of England and Scotland, no long as the principality of Wales, intend to be the nucleus of an empire, just that long must Ireland necessarily be a part of that empire. The geographical fact of its location and the racial and religious fact of Ulster make it mandatory. Against this de Valera launched his bolts of hopeless sentimentalism, scorning and repudiating the richest fruits ever won under similar circumstances, stirring up against Collins the Sinn Fein which he helped bring into life, and rousing the Dal Eireann against the leadership of Griffith. By the parliamentary skill of Collins, the irregulars and de Valerians were defeated and the sun of Ireland seemed about to emerge from the clouds, sombre and bloody, in which it had set over Boyne Water. Untimely disease was the end of Griffith last week, and one of the costliest bullets an assassin ever fired has put Collins in his grave.

Even with Griffith dead, Collins was strong enough to accomplish a great destiny for Ireland. What will be the evil consequences of the ambush at Bandon last night cannot be foreseen. The melancholy result may be many more years of fighting. De Valera, his great adversaries dead, may return to the councils in more reasonable temper. A new leader of the Free State may arise. But for the present the horizon is vacant and dark.—Louisville Times.

CLOTHING KITS AID CLUBS IN SEWING DEMONSTRATIONS

An unusual feature of the clothing work in Kansas, carried on by extension workers during the past year, as reported to the United States Department of Agriculture was the sending of sets of clothing kits to the girls' clubs in the various counties.

Each kit contained a sample patch, a sample darn, an iron holder, two aprons, a sewing bag, a laundry bag, a nightgown, an undershirt, a princess slip, a combination suit, a smock, a dresser scarf, a child's dress, rompers, charts showing appropriate school dresses, and books of samples illustrating appropriate materials to select for the different articles. The kits were sent to the county extension agents, who in turn were responsible for getting them to the clubs. Except for four clubs in three counties which received no kits every club in the state had an opportunity to examine these articles, to obtain patterns for the garments that appealed to them, and to gain better ideas on appropriate clothing for the home and for school use.

BEAVER CULTURE A MEANS OF FUR AND FOREST PRODUCTION

PLUM LICK

By Marguerite Crouch

Although the practicability of beaver farming has not been fully demonstrated, the United States Department of Agriculture believes that the business of raising beavers for their fur may develop, under proper control measures into a profitable branch of fur farming. With a small beginning the enterprise seems to promise an advance to good returns and even great possibilities.

A fertile field for beaver culture may be found in connection with projects for the restoration with confifers of burned or cut-over timberlands. Many of these areas, cleared by axe or fire and later covered with a second growth of aspen, willow and pin cherry, are for the time considered almost worthless. Over much of the northern border of the United States and still larger areas of Canada where such land is found it is generally unsuited for agriculture and would not pay taxes until again covered by valuable forest timber, but would supply ideal food for beavers, and if stocked with them could be made to yield an income while the process of reforestation is going on. The animals should not be introduced uncontrolled into places where their activities may menace irrigation or power ditches, important road or railroad grades, or agricultural districts. A suitable food supply and permanent water should be assured.

OHIO HEADS STATES IN BETTER STOCK CAMPAIGN

Ohio now heads the list of states taking part in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign being carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture and the states to induce farmers to get rid of all sires except those that are pure bred. In the three months ending July 1, of 954 livestock owners enrolling 537 were Ohians, bringing that state into the lead in number of farmers having federal-state certificates, in number of animals and in number of poultry listed. The total of persons in Ohio enrolled is now 1,970. They own 75,025 head of all kinds of farm animals and 185,595 poultry. Virginia is now second after having been in the lead since the campaign for purebred sires started in 1919.

I. C. C. ALLOWS LOWER RATE ON ROAD BUILDING MATERIAL

In the shipment of surplus war materials transferred to them by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, state highway departments will be saved a great deal of expense as a result of a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission permitting the shipment of this material as "contractor's equipment," thereby giving it the advantage of a low rate.

The railroads previously required the states to pay less-than-carload rates on the various items included in such shipments, even when together they made up a carload. The contention of the bureau is that since the bulk of this material has been used and none of it is new, and since it is all intended for use in road construction, it should be given the advantage of the low rate allowed to contractor's equipment. This contention, which was opposed by the railroads, was upheld by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The rate is now applicable to some 1,200 carloads to be shipped from Camp Grant, Illinois, and large quantities from other points. On a carload shipment from Schenectady, N. Y., to Boise, Idaho, $720 recently was saved, and $500 on another from San Antonio, Texas, to Salem, Oregon.

MORE COPIES OF POPULAR FILM

To meet the demand for the use of the motion picture film, "Great Dairy Sires and Their Daughters," the United States Department of Agriculture is making six additional copies, increasing the supply from 12 to 18. With the additional number it is believed that service to persons desiring this educational film will be greatly improved.

The picture is a one-reel production showing outstanding sires, cows and progeny of the leading dairy breeds—Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, Jersey and Brown Swiss. Numerous herd scenes are included and the improvement of dairy livestock by means of the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement is explained.

FALL DRESSES

It is a perfectly natural thing now for one's thoughts to turn towards Autumn and its requirements—particularly in the matter of DRESS. To meet the demands of the new season we have assembled an extensive assortment of the latest creations that the arbiters of fashion have decreed for Women and Misses.

Never before have we shown such superb styles in afternoon, street and traveling dresses, and from the PLAINEST TAILORED GARMENT to the DRESSIEST, our line is complete. Our showing of Fall Dresses is one of which we are justly proud, and our patrons are urged to come to the store and be outfitted while there is a wide range of models to select from. The dresses we are offering are representative of this store's EXTRA VALUE POLICY.

They bring for your attention an excellent assembly of the newest fabrics in modes most favored for Fall wear, and to appear in one of these Milady will have the satisfaction of knowing that she is correctly gowned.

BOOM IN HIGHWAY BUILDING DUE MAINLY TO FEDERAL AID

Federal aid has been probably the most important factor in the big boom in highway building of recent years, and there are now many long stretches of trunkline highway serving rich agricultural and industrial sections of the country which are almost entirely Federal-aid construction.

The United States Department of Agriculture, which administers the Federal-aid fund, points out that a traveler going from Richmond, Ind., to St. Louis across Indiana and the southern part of Illinois, thence to Chicago by way of Springfield and Peoria, a distance of approximately 679 miles, would travel 505 miles, or 75 per cent of the way, on Federal-aid highways, practically all of which should be in service by the end of the present season.

These radio things are all right, but then if you want real results you should either telephone or tell a woman.

WARNINGS SAVE GROWERS OF RAISINS FROM LOSS

In the great raisin grape growing district of central California the drying is done in trays in the open air. Great loss would result if rain should fall on the partially dried fruit; hence when rain is expected the information is immediately spread throughout the valley by telephone and telegraph, and every available person is set to stacking the trays. Even the schools may be closed and the children pressed into service and woe-betide the unfortunate tramp caught in the district who has a disinclination to become acquainted with work. This is another instance indicative of the valuable service rendered by the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture in warning fruit growers against possible losses.

NEWSPAPER ASKS MONDELL'S DEFEAT

The forthcoming primaries in Wyoming, August 22, will have a general interest outside of that state by reason of Mr. Mondell, the Republican candidate for Senator having been the Republican majority leader of the House of Representatives. As an evidence of the widespread interest is the following extract from an editorial in the Boston Transcript, one of the leading Republican newspapers of the country, asking for Mondell's defeat and the renomination of Senator Kendrick:

"The primaries in Wyoming are of interest only because Frank W. Mondell majority leader of the House of Representatives in name if not in fact aspires to the seat of Senator Kendrick, the Democratic incumbent, aspires, indeed, to replace Senator Lodge as the Republican leader. Mr. Mondell may defeat Senator Kendrick—Wyoming is a Republican State—but he will never head in the party organization in the Senate.

"It would be a great help to the Republican party if Mr. Mondell were defeated in November. His leadership of the House in the last four years has been the most incompetent and ignominious that the country has seen in twenty years. He has opposed rather than supported, President Harding on many measures which have come before Congress since March 4, 1921, despite the fact that they were in keeping with the platform pledges of his party. In the melancholy event of his election the Republican leaders of the Senate should see to it that Mr. Mondell's place in the Senate is as small as they can make it. If the people of Wyoming wish to be creditably represented in the Senate they will let well enough alone by re-electing Senator Kendrick. Mr. Mondell is the same politician that Roosevelt condemned for all time in his 'Autobiography'."

BEEF HERDS SUFFER AS DROUGHT CUTS PASTURES

Hundreds of purebred beef breeding cattle herds in Kentucky are apt to suffer expensive losses in weight during the present drought existing throughout the state unless extra feeds are supplied to supplement the failing pastures in many sections, according to E. S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture and well known authority on beef cattle. Losses in weight at this time of the year are difficult to regain later in the season. The sleek appearance which is a desirable condition in the breeding herd also is marred when the animals in it lose weight, he pointed out.

"Silage has been found to be one of the best feeds to tide cattle over being experienced in the state at during a period of drought such as the present time. Cows that are nursing calves should be given grain in addition to silage, five or six pounds a day being sufficient. About one pound of this grain mixture should be cottonseed meal. Cows without calves can get along with silage alone.

"If no silage is available, hay may be used in its place, in which case the grain should be increased to 10 pounds a day for each cow that is nursing a calf. However, cows that are not nursing calves may be maintained on hay alone.

"Experiences on the college farm indicate that owners of purebred beef breeding cattle herds should find this method of feeding a profitable one. Breeding cattle in the college herd have been given supplementary feeds since the drought started and this method of herd management will be continued until the pastures are revived with fall rains. Preventing shrink in cattle by supplementing the short pastures should prove economical on every beef breeding farm.

"If silage is fed during the summer, it should be lowered from four to six inches in the pit every day in order to prevent loss from decay. Breeders who have no facilities for feeding silage undoubtedly would profit by making plans now to store some of their green crops, for feed during periods of drought that exist from time to time in the state.

A Leather Goods Store means more than saddles, bridles and harness. It does mean this and more, namely: Purses, Bags, Toilet Articles of every description known to the trade, and, in addition, Traveling Bags, Suit Cases, Trunks, Medical Cases, professional, etc., etc. Such a store is a Leather Goods Store and such a store is our store.

We have all the articles named and many more—every piece of which is high-class. No shoddy goods are shown from our stock. It never looks well; is expensive in that the wear is short lived. Our goods can be relied upon as genuine, and when owned by the man or woman going from one state to another, the professional man who comes in contact with the gifted, it is as an engraved card telling of the high-class person who presents it. "KNOW YOUR WHEAT"

To enable farmers and local grain buyers to meet more satisfactorily the conditions under which wheat is handled and graded when it reaches the terminal market, the extension services of Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota, cooperating with representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, are conducting a "Know Your Own Wheat" campaign. During the first 10 days of the campaign, schools were held at Fargo, N. Dakota, and Brookings, S. Dak., where specialists in handling and grading wheat gave instruction to county agents from the three States.

Following this preliminary work, local meetings of one or two days each are being held in wheat-producing counties where the county agents assisted by the specialists assigned for the campaign, are demonstrating directly to farmers and local grain buyers the best methods of handling and grading wheat for shipment to terminal market. Grain-grading apparatus has been supplied to 16 counties in each of the three States, for use under the direction of the county agents and specialists conducting the work.

It is planned to have farmers and buyers attend the same meetings so that both may have like information regarding methods of handling and grading. A representative of the department recently spent three weeks assisting in the campaigns.

FORECASTS INCREASED PROFITS

Forecasts of weather conditions for alfalfa harvest are widely distributed in the West, particularly in Oklahoma, where 2,000 or more growers receive the forecasts through the local agents of the extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture. In Utah a rather limited but important frost-warning service for alfalfa-seed growers is in operation.

Seed is largely grown from the second crop, and if the season is late the harvest and fall frost periods come close together. As the seed crop increases in value at the rate of about $5 a day for each acre of seed when nearing maturity, the growers let the seed stand as long as possible. When temperatures low enough to cause damage are predicted by the Weather Bureau it is not unusual for the seed growers to run their cutting machines most of the night.

In one section of Utah during a recent harvest season fully 500 acres of seed were cut after saving of $20 to $30 an acre. Two of these growers reported that they saved at least $2,000 as a result of the weather information furnished by Uncle Sam concerning frost conditions.

Special-Six
Touring

$1275

SAVINGS resulting from capacity manufacture are now offered to the buyer of the Studebaker Special-Six. The new price of $1275 is $200 under its former price.

Studebaker reductions became effective August 1st after Studebaker had completed the biggest seven months in its 70 years' history. And at a time when Studebaker had 15,000 unfilled orders on hand! It is a Studebaker policy of long standing to share manufacturing savings with the customer.

The performance, durability, comfort and quality of the Special-

Six are recognized everywhere. And here's new proof of its endurance: Studebaker's sales of repair parts, covering accidents as well as service, for the first seven months of 1922 were less than they were for the first seven months of 1919, in spite of the fact that 186,000 new cars were sold and put into operation since January 1, 1920.

The Special-Six at $1275 represents a new standard of value—the greatest value Studebaker has ever offered, and that means a value that is positively unapproached anywhere in the industry.

THE HEN CALLS FOR HELP

Finally the food profiteers have locked horns with a real question.

They face the inexorable persistence of the great American hen and panic reings.

Some years ago the American hen gave warning that she might prove a dangerous enemy and bring about fair prices, but the sbrewd profiteers countered, and when the hen laid in sufficient volume to feed the people the cold storage warehouse was conceived.

Instead of being distributed at prices governed by the law of supply and demand, eggs were stored, kept from the people, and doled out at uniformly high prices.

It appears, however, that the great American hen has been thinking.

The result is she has again come to the front with a production so bewildering that the cold storage plants cannot take care of it.

True, in spite of this, eggs in New York are selling from 60 to 75 cents a dozen.

But the bump is at hand.

If the hen gets a little support from the public and a little tiny egg strike be started, the backbone of the price extortion will be broken.

It is all very well to store eggs, but when it comes to erecting more and more great steel and concrete structures equipped with the expensive freezing plants to take care of them then it may be thought better to sell the present stock at a fair price.

There are now 303,000,000 dozen eggs in storage—more than three dozen for every person in the United States.

And the great American hen is still on the job.

There's no fool like an old fool who acts like a young fool.

APOTHEOSIS OF HYPOCRISY

"The government goes right on ignoring the prohibition law on sea while making some ineffective efforts to enforce it on land," remarked August Busch, of the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., when he arrived last week from Europe. Mr. Busch further stated that passengers on the George Washington discussed the buying of liquor from the government on board the ship and then inviting the government to arrest and prosecute them when they reached shore.

It would certainly be a nice legal question as to whether the government could use money from the United States treasury to sell liquor on its ships at a profit and then prosecute a purchase for violation of the law.

It is true the government is in an awkward position. The shipping board is spending thousands of dollars to stimulate passenger traffic, but much of the money is wasted because a dry ship has a hard time to win travelers.

The majority of the people of the United States may be dry, but they don't travel the ocean enough to back up an American merchant marine along lines of moral conduct.

Official dignitaries who publicly espouse prohibition have their cellars, the private room at the public banquet is a recognized factor at all "successful dinners." Even the offices of some of our congressmen are said to be storehouses for booze.

Summed up, the country stands today the apotheosis of hypocrisy.

The American merchant marine seems to rest in the balance, but hypocrisy will slak the ships quicker than any restriction.

Let's have enforcement or repeal, one thing or the other.

SALESMAN INHERITS $600,000

Louis A. McMillan, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a match salesman, and Mrs. Bertha M. Heber, of Chappaqua, his sister, had an uncle—A. Haples, retired reticent old man in his 80's, who lived by himself in a cheaply furnished room in Hoboken, N. J.

He pretended to sell insurance, but so poorly did he dress and so unfortunate did he seem that they often wondered how he scraped together the money to pay for the bed and board.

The old man was friendless, but he was the type that shuns friends.

Suddenly, at the age of 82, he was taken ill. Mrs. Heber learned of it by chance and hurried to him. She persuaded him to come with her to her home where, under her care, he seemed at first to rally. But the old man was too feeble to withstand the illness and died July 12, 1921.

At the time of Mr. Haples' death, McMillan was in Pittsburg on business and his sister wired him to come home and close the old man's affairs.

Meantime, the sister found a will dated March 1, 1873, which left most of the estate to relatives long dead, and a small fraction to the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York and another to the diocese of Long Island. Across the will, "over Parson's signature, was written a revocation. The diocese fought the revocation of the will and first won the case in a New York court, but lost it in a later decision rendered by Surrogate George A. Slater in Westchester county, June 27 last. An appeal is to be heard in the appellate division in Brooklyn in the fall.

"I don't know just exactly how much the estate will amount to," McMillan told a reporter, "but it will be somewhere between $600,000 and $800,000."

McMillan is pretty calm about it. "Yes," he said, "I'll be back selling matches just as soon as this business is cleared up."

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Discounting the "Discount" in Advance

You don't have to be a shrewd bargainer to get the bottom price on the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can. You can see from the figures below that its advertised price is lower than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

We believe the average man would rather buy tires on this frank and open basis, and assure himself a product of recognized worth.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord is made of high-grade long-staple cotton, and it embodies the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction.

In design, materials and manufacture it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

It has a different tread from the famous All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for substantially less.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY

Some million and a half American workers are at present on strike. They are losing $50,000,000 a week in wages and the country is deprived of the fruits of their labor, the value of which is beyond the possibility of expression in terms of dollars and cents.

The textile workers, who produce clothing, the coal miners who supply fuel, the railway shop men, who maintain the instrumentalities of transportation, and the trolley men who are necessary to quick and convenient transit in two cities—these are the larger groups of operatives who have quit their part in the nation's industry as a protest against the reduction of their wages.

Without attempting to assess or place the responsibility for these serious interruptions to production and transportation, it is nevertheless fair to point out that two years ago the Republican candidates and their supporters promised the American workers a golden age of prosperity and a practical insurance against unemployment and lower wages if they would only vote the Republican ticket.

There were to be reforms in the government, an expert management of public affairs, a tariff that would uphold wages for those in industry and guarantee higher prices for those in agriculture. In this buzz and hum of industry every one was to be as busy and blithe as a bee gathering honey against the coming of winter. And, of course, this prosperity was to be of the famous Republican brand, warranted to last a life time.

If any of the 3,000,000 unemployed through inability to find work and the 500,000 on strike against lower pay were lured by these Republican pictures of dawning prosperity into voting for Mr. Harding and his Republican Congress they must be sadly undecieved by this time. If the farmer was misled by these promises of better prices for his products, which since 1920 declined billions in value, he must share the worker's disappointment and dissatisfaction.

Not only has the Republican administration failed to bring a new and greater prosperity; not only has it failed to continue the prosperous conditions which prevailed when it came into power, but has actually turned the country's previous prosperity into an industrial panic.

SHOREBIRDS OPEN SEASON SOON

The open season for hunting blackbellied and golden plovers and greater and lesser yellowlegs varies in the different States, the earliest opening date being August 16 for Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, according to an announcement issued by the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture. In Connecticut, the District of Columbia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico the season on these birds opens September 1.

In other States the open season begins at various dates after September 1. A closed season throughout the year prevails in all States on all other shorebirds, including avocets, curlews, dowitchers, godwits, knots, oyster catchers, phalaropes, willet, and all plovers and snipe other than golden and blackbellied plovers and Wilson snipe or jacksnipe. Practically all States require hunters to obtain State hunting licenses.

Greater and lesser yellowlegs and blackbellied plover are reported plentiful this year, and excellent shooting should be found at many places on the Atlantic coast and along inland rivers and bays throughout their range, where good feeding grounds are located.

JINGLE OF 15,000,000 FARM DOLLARS IN MARRIAGE

When Harold F. McCormick, son of old Cyrus McCormick, inventor of the wheat binder, was married to Mme. Ganna Walska the other day, there echoed the clank of some fifteen million American farm dollars.

Country America is not much interested in the doings of millionaires, but the name McCormick is different because it is known in every farm yard in the United States. The McCormick millions are made up of dollars paid in for farm machinery during the last half century.

The marriage of Harold McCormick to the thrice married Polish opera singer, Ganna Walska, is the story of a man of great wealth, swayed by love, who gave up one of America's greatest industrial positions, the presidency of the International Harvester Company, stripped himself of a large part of his huge fortune and unmade two marriages (his own and that of Mme. Walska) in order to wed the woman of his choice.

It is estimated that it cost him $15,000,000. These figures include the settlement with his former wife; a settlement of $5,000,000 on his new wife and costs of the two divorces.

Harold McCormick's first wife was Edith Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, the world's richest man.

The Rockefeller family is much opposed to divorces—still it was John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who finally went to Chicago and after a brief and vigorous conference with his sister, persuaded her to start action for divorce which was granted just three days before last New Year. An outside property settlement was then made which was reported to be almost half the McCormick fortune.

McCormick still holds his former father-in-law, John D. Sr., in high regard and only recently said he was sure the former oil king sympathized with him.

Harold McCormick met Ganna Walska in 1920. She called him on the phone and asked him to help her realize the ambition of her life to score a success on the operatic stage.

"From that meeting began my acquaintance with the woman I determined to make my wife. I found that she was not only beautiful and talented, but possessed spiritual qualities such as I had never before recognized in any human being," McCormick is reported as having said.

Mme. Ganna Walska was first married to a Russian general who was killed in action. Next she married Dr. Fraenkel, who died in 1920. Later she married Alexander Smith Cochran, millionaire bachelor, from whom she recently was divorced by French courts.

There is an old saying that the third generation of the rich are usually back in overalls.

Will this prove true with the McCormicks?

Harold McCormick has staked the harvester king's fortune in half to wed the woman of his choice.

And he now says: "The ambition of my life is to see her recognized as the greatest woman singer in the world."

That means that he will spend the rest of the McCormick millions for her success—or failure.

And there is the rub.

Edith Rockefeller McCormick, the spurned wife, from her high social throne, can have a finger in the success or failure of her former husband's love bride when the latter is ready for her grand opera test.

But will she? Maybe it will not be necessary.

Maybe Harold McCormick, blinded and swayed by love, is following a will-o-the-wisp idea—imagining qualities in a voice which do not exist.

Weather and Crops

High temperature during the first five days, the warmest similar period this season, and the persistent dry weather, caused the drought to spread until it now prevails in practically all of the north and west portions of the state. Except in a few localities there has been no rain of consequence for three weeks in the central and western counties, while the extreme western counties have had no rain for a month. It is only in the southeastern part of the state that there has been sufficient moisture to keep crops growing. Early corn has practically matured. In the district near the Ohio river between the Green and Licking rivers, also in most of the southern half of the state, corn is generally good, but on the hill land in the western counties and in a large district in the central and northeastern sections, it is badly dried, often up to the ear, and the crop will be materially reduced. Cutting and housing of early tobacco continued somewhat more rapidly, because of firing and premature ripening. Except for sunburn of tobacco wilting in the fields, the weather was favorable for this work; also for hastening the curing process. The drought is operating to reduce the yield, as growth has nearly ceased, with the plants poorly spread and under developed. Growth of late corn, tobacco and potatoes has about ceased in the northern and western districts, while in the driest localities the condition of these crops is critical, and they are beginning to deteriorate. Tomatoes for the canneries were blistered in the fields by the intense heat. Where drought has been most persistent pastures are so badly dried that feeding has become necessary, and stock water is very low. Gardens are failing generally. Young clover and cowpeas need rain badly. No progress was made with plowing.
